RUDOLPH AT REST.

The Funeral Ceremonies of Austria's Crown Prince.

Laid to Rest Beside the Bodies of His Ancestors.

Some Scenes and Incidents of the Last Sad Rites.

The Distinguished Company Composing the Cortege.

Rudolph's Funeral.

VIENNA, February 5.—The city to day is given over entirely to mourning. Enormous crowds commenced to assemble outside of the court chapel at an early hour in the morning. Perfect order prevailed to day in contrast with the disorder of yesterday. The emperor and empress and the crown princess attended the requiem mass in the oratorium of the chapel at which the miserere was sung by the court choir. The service was ended at noon. The church bells then ceased to toll and the coffin lid was fastened at 2 o'clock and the key was confided to Prince Hohenlohe, the court marshal. Soon afterward the gates of the chapel were closed and the members of the imperial family gathered around the catafalque to take a last look at the remains. Just before 4 o'clock the members of the imperial house stepped in front of the side entrance of the Capuchin church, where they were received by Prince Hohenlohe, Prince Hunyadi, chief master of ceremonies, and the father guardian accompanied by guards bearing lighted tapers. When the clock struck 4, the coffin was lifted from the bier, bl—d and carried to the funeral car. The cortege then started from Hofburg. Upon reaching Augustine church the priests assembled and placed themselves at the head of the procession and were followed by the court and state officials and the municipal authorities. When the car bearing the body arrived at the cloister gates, Emperor Francis Joseph and the king and queen of Belgium, followed by other monarchs, entered the body of the church. The military of the empire took up their positions to the right of the catafalque and next to them, near the main entrance, came in their proper order the various deputations. When the services were over and just as the chamberlains were preparing to carry the coffin to the vault the emperor stepped to the bier and knelt in prayer. Unbinding he was joined by Archduke Charles, Prince Francis of Bavaria, Prince Leopold of Bavaria and Prince Philip of Coburg. The party followed the coffin to the vault, where after the final blessing Prince Hohenlohe delivered the remains to the charge of the father guardian. The empress crown princess Prince Gisela and Duchess Marie Vetsera did not attend the funeral ceremonies, the time in prayer within Hofburg.

Lying in State.

VIENNA, February 5.—The Crown Prince's body is lying in state in the court chapel. A great crowd gathered thicker outside of the chapel awaiting an opportunity to view the remains. Perfect order has been maintained. At a meeting of the council having in charge the serial publication of Rudolph's work on Austria and Hungary today Von Sacher-Masoch, intimated that the emperor was in favor of continuing and completing the work which he said would probably be finished under the patronage of the Crown Princess.

VIENNA, February 5.—Several persons have been arrested for repeating rumors that Crown Prince Rudolph met his death at the hands of the husband of a woman he betrayed. It is asserted that the Crown Prince in his last letter to his mother says "I cannot live longer."

Prince Rudolph's Last Direction.

PESTH, February 6.—The Nation, a newspaper, publishes a letter this morning written by Crown Prince Rudolph a short time before his death to Von Sacher-Masoch, an attache of the imperial household, to whom he entrusted the preparation of his papers. The letter reads:

"DEAR SACHER-MASOCH:—I send you here with a codicil. You will execute its provisions and those of my will, drawn two years ago with the consent of my wife. In my study at Hofburg stands a small table. With the enclosed gold key open the drawers and you will find my papers, the arrangement of which I entrust to you, leaving it to your judgment to decide what to publish. I can live no longer. Remember me to all my good friends. Farewell. God bless our beloved fatherland.

[Signed] YOUR RUDOLPH.

Requiem Mass.

LONDON, February 5.—Requiem mass for Austrian Crown Prince was celebrated to day. The Prince of Wales, Prince Christie, Prince Henry of Battenberg, Salisbury and the French, German, Turkish and Belgium ministers attended the services.

Notorious Woman Shot.

FORT SMITH, Ark., February 5.—A dispatch announces that at Eufala, Indian territory, on Sunday Belle Storrs was shot and killed but gives no particulars. Belle was a notorious woman. She was once the wife of Cole Younger of the famous "Younger gang." After wards she married Sam Storrs, who was shot down by her side two years ago. Then she married Jim Storrs, his cousin. Belle was the most desperate woman who ever figured on the borders. She married Cole Younger and directly afterwards left him and joined a band of outlaws that operated in the Indian territory. She had been arrested for murder and robbery a score of times but always managed to escape. Her husband Jim Storrs, when he heard of her death mounted his horse and left for the scene. When he arrives somebody will have to pay the penalty.

Stock Market.

NEW YORK, February 5.—Money on call easy at 2 to 3, prime paper 4 to 6. The stock market suffered a further diminution of interest to day and the amount of business done underwent further reduction. The feature of the day was the strength, displayed in C., C., C. and I., it showing a gain of 3% at the close. The first prices were generally from ¼ to ¾ per cent lower than last evening's figures. The movement in Oregon Transcontinental during the last hour indicated some little advance and the market closed dull and rather heavy, generally at something better than the lowest figures. Governments dull but firm. Petroleum opened firm at 85½, but became heavy and sagged off to 85¾. A slight improvement then occurred and the market closed firm at 86¼. Sales 31,000 barrels.

Bonanza Pursuit.

DENVER, February 5.—In the Bonanza-Durant mining suit today Frank G. White, Mr. Hawe and Assayer Rasette testified. The evidence of Mr. White was very clear and forcible upon all questions except the terminus of the Bonanza body at No. 2 court incline and the connection of the veins exhibited in the northern and southern portions of the Durant. Mr. Rasette did not prove a very strong witness for the Durant as he proved inadequate to the task and presumed to advance new theories from data with the views of his predecessors and the maps and estimate prepared by the geologists and engineers in the case. A letter dated to-day from Mr. Rasette was brought out in evidence. It was addressed to Hon. [illegible] Wash. It was brought out in the trial by Bonzag & Stratton to show the position of the Durant and why it could not [illegible]. At last to acquire a description of the property. The Durant side will probably be completed when Frank Special testifies and much is expected of John Palmer, who began [illegible] testimony this evening. SEVENTEEN DROWNED.

Teamsters Lose Their Lives While Hauling Logs on Pine Lake.

The Austrian Succession Engages Much Anxious Attention.

Rudolph's Daughter Thought to be the Legal Successor.

The Italian Minister Speaks of the Situation in Austria.

Seventeen Drowned.

ALBANY, N. Y., February 5.—News has been received here of a dreadful accident at Pine Lake, Fulton county. The reports are indefinite, but so far as can be learned, the accident resulted in the drowning of seventeen men. The victims were driving teams engaged in hauling logs across the ice on the lake, when the ice broke and the men and horses were all lost. A dispatch from Canajoharie says that the following information has been received there regarding the accident at Pine Lake. Twenty-four teams were engaged in drawing logs across the ice, regarding the safety of of which no fears were felt, but it gave way, however, after seven drivers and their teams had reached the shore, and the remaining drivers and horses broke through the ice and sank out of sight. None of the bodies have yet been recovered.

The Austrian Succession.

BERLIN, February 5.—The question of the succession to the Austrian throne is causing increasing excitement in official and diplomatic circles. Papers quote an article from the Italian Official Journal by Signor Crispi, the Italian prime minister, declaring that the Salic law has been virtually abolished in Austria-Hungary, and that therefore the Crown Prince Rudolph's daughter is heir to the throne. It is certain that Crispi does not relish the prospect of the heir of the Duke of Modena, who was deposed by the unification of Italy, becoming the presumptive heir to the throne of Austria. Furthermore both Archduke Karl and his son Franz are ultra Catholic foes of the House of Savoy and enemies of the Italian unity and are ardent allies of the Vatican. Apart from these enquiries even if class interests did not raise the question of succession it would be doubtful if of [illegible] in Austria-Hungary would maintain the present Emperor Francis Joseph on the throne, in defiance of the Pragmatic Sanction of the famous Archduke Albrecht. Politically that the question has already engaged the anxious attention of the [illegible] ministry, although official circles [illegible] that the succession would not be [illegible] for [illegible] years.

Railway Bonds.

WASHINGTON, February 5.—George H. Bates late United States commissioner was to day asked by an associated press reporter what in his opinion would be the probable effect upon the policy of our government of Prince Bismarck's recent orders to the German consul at Samoa and the commander of the fleet. He said: "I do not see why the more recent dispatches from Germany should affect the attitude of the United States. The proclamation of martial law and the assumption of the direct administration of affairs in Samoa by the German consul which are now reported to have been discountenanced by Prince Bismarck were not the foundations of the trouble there which excited the attention of the president and congress. Interposition of congress was invoked by the previous aggressions of the local German officials and residents there. Their disregard of an understanding, expressed and implied, upon which all our negotiations with Germany have proceeded and the evident disposition of that power to abstract the group without further consultation with the United States were the foundations of the trouble. With respect to these matters there is as yet no sign of any concession unless it is the proposition published this morning for a conference at Berlin.

"In my judgment restoration of the status quo ought to be the condition which should precede any further negotiation and that involves among other things the reassembling of the conference at Washington. It seems to me that Prince Bismarck's proposal to remove the negotiations to Berlin is both a slight and a compliment to our secretary of state. A slight because he was our representative here and could be present as such nowhere else; a compliment because it would obviate that at the conference proceedings of which [illegible] in diplomacy the German and English representatives [illegible]. But even if Germany's disclaimer were broad enough to cover the whole subject of the matter involved in the president's communication to congress our past experience warns us not to be too quick in relying upon assurances from Berlin as indicating the course of events in Samoa. Successive violations by the German local officials in Samoa of assurances made to this government indicate either gross insubordination which is entirely contrary to [illegible] or else some understanding exists by which the consul there is authorized to act on his own responsibility according to his views of the necessity of the case and he is allowed to exceed his instructions as reported here."

Mr. Bates was asked what he thought of the declaration of war by Germany against Samoa he said:

"The declaration seems to me utterly inconsistent with the restoration of status quo. If Germany goes to war in Samoa it will be useless to have a conference at all. Of course Germany can ultimately drive the Samoans into the sea and take the islands by conquest. This would be no less the destruction of the Samoan autonomy than if it was done [illegible] at once on an absolute halt. If we consent to less than this we may as well wash our hands of the whole business and abandon all idea of preserving the neutrality of those islands."

Conference Committee.

WASHINGTON, February 5.—The conferees on the territory admission bill held a two hour session this morning during which the whole situation was gone over thoroughly but without result.

The committee adjourned to meet again to-morrow. It was apparent, it is said, that there would be no earnest effort made to agree upon a bill that could be unanimously reported, but this will have to include New Mexico if the house conferees are to support the measure. They are reported to be willing to withdraw their objection to the division of Dakota if this is acceded them and the outspoken sentiment in the senate to-day favors an amendment to the admission of New Mexico may induce the senatorial conferees to agree to such a compromise.

Creek Agreement.

WASHINGTON, February 5.—The president to-day transmitted to congress for its approval and ratification the provisional agreement lately entered into between the United States and the Creek Indians. The Creek nation cedes to the United States a title to the entire western half of the domain of that nation lying west of the division line established by the treaty of 1866. The United States agrees to pay the Indians $2,280,807 of which $280,807 is to be paid to the treasurer of the nation and $2,000,000 is to remain in the United States treasury to the credit of the nation and bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent. The nation also agrees to devote not less than $50,000 annually for educational purposes.

Pueblo's Opera House.

PUEBLO, Colo., February 5.—Work on the new opera house was commenced here to-day. This opera house is to surpass anything in the United States. The architects have traveled in Europe in preparation of the design. Mr. McGonigle of Leavenworth, Kas., is the contractor.

Reservoir Appropriation.

WASHINGTON, February 5.—An amendment was presented in the senate by Senator [illegible] to the sundry bill to increase from $250,000 to $500,000 the appropriation for the survey of sites for the construction of reservoirs for the purpose of reclaiming the arid lands of the west.

Treaty Prohibited.

HARRISBURG, Pa., February 5.—In the house today a bill was introduced prohibiting treating. The bill makes it a penal offense punishable by a fine of not less than $50 or more than $500 for any one to treat another to intoxicating liquors.

Diphtheria to be Prevented.

PARIS, February 5.—The Figaro says to-day that two professors connected with the Pasteur Institute have succeeded in discovering the microbe causing the disease of diphtheria. The discovery of a preventative of this disease by means of a vaccine virus is expected to follow.

Prohibitory Amendment.

BOSTON, February 5.—The house of representatives this afternoon adopted the proposed constitutional prohibitory amendment by a vote of 161 to 69.

In the Alley Behind Every Lot in Parrish's Addition

There is a 3-inch Water Pipe, connected at Chestnut street with a 16-inch main; the Largest in the City's System. THE MAIN CITY DITCH, taking pure, clear water from the Fountain, runs just back of PARRISH'S ADDITION, and within a stone's throw of it.

Foot Ball.

Quite a large audience witnessed the game of Rugby foot ball between the College team and the High school club yesterday afternoon A number of ladies occupied the grand stand and other lovers of the game were out in force. Those that attended were delighted with the game The score stood 26 to 0 in favor of the Springs team, but it reveals nothing in regard to the game which was hotly contested by the college boys They were a little light in weight for their opponents but made it up in "wind" and staying qualities Greenough, Barnes, De La Vergne, Johnson, and Kerr, of the college all played splendidly. Greenough is especially a brilliant player, Barnes did excellent work and De La Vergne is a fine runner. Douglass and M. O. Barnes of the Springs club did the best work. Barnes made the first touch down and did all of the kick-offs for his side. Perhaps the most exciting point in the game was when he made a successful chase after Gale, of the college, in a clear field Douglass made three touch downs and made a number of distinguishing plays. Earle of the Springs team, made a number of brilliant plays and added to his reputation as a runner. Both Connell and Bradoff are fine players. In fact all the Springs club lacks to make them a team, is one of the state is practice The boys hope to be able to play a game every week from now until the weather is too warm On the 22d a game will be played with the Denver university nine

Wool Market.

C. [illegible] Brothers, wool commission merchants Philadelphia, in their last wool circular have the following "The past month has been quiet. Most of the sales have been at full quotations, but buyers could not be induced to take more than their actual wants The backward market for woolen goods, and the difficulty of obtaining any advance in price, has been partially the result of the unusually mild weather, though greater importance may be laid on the heavy importations of woolens and worsteds, the competition of manufacturers who have supplies of low cost wool, and the general tendency of the times towards lower prices. Stocks of wool are admitted to be light in all the markets but there is no actual scarcity of any grade. The approach of the end of the year usually induces many operators to endeavor to close their holdings before the new clip is much talked of. Those who have held in the hope of legislation by Congress now admit that it cannot come in time to help the present clip. The close of the month shows some disposition to weaken, especially on fine wools. The London sales opened on the 29th ultimo at about former prices with some descriptions a little lower. Most of these wools are, however, yet above our level "

A very nice audience assembled at Leber hall last night to witness the entertainment by Miss Lela Horn and Prof. C. H Seymour Those who attended were very pleasantly entertained The room had been tastefully decorated and was demonstrated to a certainty that the hall is just suited for such entertainments and is something the city has needed for a long time. The entertainment consisted of recitations by Miss Horn, duets on the piano by Prof. D. H Seymour and Prof. E. Bach and the operetta of "High Life." Of Miss Horn's recitations only the highest praise can be given She is an accomplished reader and the three selections, Aunt Peggy and High Art," "The Colonel and "Vashti" were splendidly rendered Miss Horn has been well trained and is thoroughly imbued with the spirit of her art She united a complete success last night The operetta of High Life was very nicely rendered Messrs D Seymour and Will Francis assuming the principal male parts and Mrs Maude Del Mare and the Misses Collins and Bowder the ladies parts They sang nicely and acted their parts far above the average amateur Altogether the entertainment was a great success and either had could not ask for a more delightful evening

THE GAZETTE.

PUBLISHED BY

THE GAZETTE PRINTING CO.

Governor Wilson of West Virginia, in view of the contest which has been going on as to his successor announces his intention of keeping his seat until the question is settled beyond doubt, even if this necessitates his remaining in office after March 4, when his term expires. This is rather remarkable announcement, as Governor Wilson will have no more claim upon the office he now fills after noon on March 4 than the man in the moon. There is but little doubt that General Goff has been fairly and honestly elected and unless some new decision of the courts shall be made, he will enter upon his duties on the 4th of next month. But so far as Governor Wilson is concerned the question of a recount would have nothing to do with his retiring at the end of his term. The fact that two men or a dozen are claiming to be his successor cannot interfere with his promptly stepping down and out at the expiration of the time for which he was elected.

Unusual interest will center in the gubernatorial election in Rhode Island this spring. The contest promises to be a hot and exciting one. For the first time foreign born citizens heretofore disfranchised will vote. This will give to the contest a feature which makes the result difficult of prediction, as the distribution of this new vote is uncertain. It is estimated that out of the 35,000 foreign-born persons at present in Rhode Island there are about seven thousand who are naturalized citizens and who will vote at the April election. The Providence Journal makes an attempt to estimate the probable distribution of this vote and gives a large majority of it to the democrats, making the state democratic by about 2000 majority. While it is probable that the democratic candidate will receive a majority of the foreign-born vote, any estimate of anything like the exact number must be purely guess work. Ex Governor Davis, who was elected in 1887 by a majority of more than 5000, is the most prominent candidate for the democratic nomination, and he will, if nominated, prove a strong candidate, and those interested in the repeal of the prohibitionary amendment will undoubtedly support him.

The people of New Jersey are to receive their reward for electing a democratic legislature. This reward is to come in the shape of the repeal of the local option law the short life of which was already proved it to be a genuine blessing to the state. This law was passed about two years ago by a republican legislature and was promptly vetoed by the democratic governor. The friends of local option succeeded after a hard fight in having the measure passed over the governor's veto by a two thirds vote. The beneficent results obtained by the enactment and enforcement of the local option law have fully realized all expectations. As is always the case where liquor is banished as it was in many sections of New Jersey, under the provisions of the law, crime and immorality rapidly decreased. But it struck a death blow at the liquor interests. And the saloon men determined to elect a legislature at the last election which would repeal it if it were possible. Knowing that they could get no aid from republicans who were in most cases pledged to stand by local option, they rallied to the support of the democratic candidates all over the state. The organization of their forces was thorough and backed by all the money which a business interest threatened with destruction gladly furnished they won the fight and a democratic legislature was elected. During the campaign democratic orators who were on the stump to influence the friends of local option sneered at the suggestion that a democratic majority in the legislature meant the repeal of the local option law. They denied that the democracy was not just as warm a friend of local option as the republican party. How little these sneers and denials amounted to was proven a few days after the new legislature assembled in Trenton. The assembly had scarcely been organized before a caucus of democratic members met and decided to support a bill repealing the local option law. Such a bill was reported a short time ago from the committee on the revision of laws. This bill passed the house last week by a majority of three on a strictly party vote. As there is a democratic majority of one in the senate it is likely that the bill will go through that body and its fate by the democratic governor is not problematic. Thus New Jersey is blessed by a democratic legislature.
